EXPLANATION OF CHRONOLOGICAL CYCLES AND ERAS.

The Golden Number is that which any given year holds in the Lunar Cycle, which is a period of 19 years at the lapse of which the phases of the moon take place on the same day of the months respectively as at the commencement of the Cycle. Therefore, while the sun performs its annual course 19 times, the courses of the moon amount to 235. In the Ancient Calendar this number was inscribed on a tablet set up in the market-place of Athens in letters of gold, hence the term Golden Number. It was likewise called the Prime, because it pointed out the first day of the new moon, primum Luna.

The Epact is the number of days of the Lunar Cycle, over and above all the complete courses of the moon for any number of years, hence the number indicates the age of the moon at the beginning of the year.

The Solar Cycle is a period of 28 years, which owing to leap year, must necessarily elapse before the days of the month can return respectively to the same days of the week as at the commencement of the Cycle. The first year of the Christian Era was the tenth year of this Cycle.

The Dominical Letter is that letter of the alphabet which points out in the calendar the Sundays throughout the year, thence also called the Sunday Letter or Die Dominica.

Roman Indiction was a period of 15 years, instituted by Constantine the Great in A. D. 312, for levying certain taxes upon the subjects of his empire. The Popes since the time of Charlemagne have dated their acts by the year of the indiction, which was fixed on the 1st of January.

The Julian Period embraces 7980 years, and is produced by multiplying into each other the Solar Cycle (28), the Lunar Cycle (19), and the Cycle of the Indiction (15). This period is reckoned from 709 years before the usual date fixed upon for the Creation, at a time when the three Cycles are supposed to have commenced together, a circumstance which cannot take place again until A. D. 8237, or the lapse of the entire period.

Our Lord was born in 4713 of the Julian Period. This style was contrived by Joseph Juste Scaliger in A. D. 1583, for chronological purposes, and is assumed as a fixed era in the calculation of all Astronomers and Chronologists. It is of great importance as the standard or general receptacle of all other Epochs, Period and Cycles "into this, as into a large ocean, all the stream of time discharge themselves, without losing their character, and if historians had recorded the number of each Cycle in each year respectively, there could have been no dispute about the date of any event in past ages."

GREGORIAN CALENDAR OR NEW STYLE.

Up to 1582 the length of the year as computed by Julius Cæsar in B C 45 consisted of 365 days and 6 hours but as the true length of a solar year is only 365 days, 5 hours and nearly 49 minutes this calculation had produced an error amounting to 10 days. Consequently Pope Gregory XIII—hence the calendar was called Gregorian—undertook in 1582 to rectify that error by making the year to consist of 365 days, ten days between the 4th and 15th October were struck out and the 5th was reckoned as the 15th October. According to this style the ordinary year is to consist of 365 days but the year 1581 and every fourth year afterwards termed leap year to contain 366 days and the centuries 1700, 1800, 1900, 2100, and so on for those centuries which are not divisible by 100 are to be reckoned, not as leap years, but as ordinary years of 365 days only.

The New Style has been gradually adopted throughout Europe except in Russia and Greece where the old style still prevails.

In Great Britain the New Style was adopted in 1752 by that time the error had amounted to 11 days, it was therefore enacted that September 3 of that year should be reckoned as September 14. During the present century supposing the New Style had not been adopted, the error would be 12 days, and this difference must therefore be allowed in Russian and Greek dates. Thus a Russian bill, dated March 2, must be reckoned as dated March 14.

JANUARY.

"THE Latin name of this month, Januarius, is derived from Janus, a heathen god worshipped by the Romans, which had two faces, the one looking before, the other behind, probably, to intimate the double aspect of this portion of time. The zodiacal sign of the month is ♒ Aquarius, or the Waterbearer."

FEBRUARY.

"FEBRUARY (Latin Februarius) received its name from the goddess Juno, or, as she was sometimes called, Februa. In this month the Romans held a feast of sacrifices and Purifications, called Februalia, in the vain hope of being cleansed from the sins of the whole year. Our Saxon ancestors called it "Sprout-kale-monath," because the cabbages and kale begin now to sprout. They also called it Sol-monath, because in this month they offered pancakes to Sol, or the Sun, and hence the origin of Pancake Day. The zodiacal sign of the month is ♓, Pisces, or the Fishes, to indicate the waters which at this time often flood the country."

APRIL.

"This month was called by the Romans Aprilis, from the Latin aperio, "to open," in allusion to the bursting of the buds and trees and flowers. Artists represent April as a young man clothed in green with a garland of myrtle and hawthorn buds on his head, and in his hand a cluster of primroses and violets. It corresponds to the Jewish LEB, ZIV, or Ziv (1 Kings vi. 1), the eighth of the civil, and second of the sacred year. Its Saxon name was Easter, or Oster-monath, from the feast of the goddess Eostre which was generally held in this month. Its zodacal sign is ♉, Taurus, or the Bull."

SEPTEMBER.

"SEPTEMBER, now the ninth, was anciently the seventh month, as is indicated by its name, which is derived from septem, signifying "seven" ember, or number, as from the Latin, and signifies "showers," as frequently the rainy seasons begin this month. It answers to TISHRI, or ETHANIM (I Kings viii 2), the first month of the civil, and the seventh of the sacred year of the Jews. Our Saxon ancestors called it Grut-monath, or barley month. Barley is a corruption from the Saxon ben legh, beer being made from it. It was the chief grain cultivated by the Saxons, and they harvested it this month. It zodiacal sign is ♎, or the Balance, signifying the equal length of day and night which now occurs."

NOVEMBER.

"NOVEMBER is so named from the Latin novem nine, it being the ninth month of the Roman calendar. It corresponds to the Jewish Chislel (Neh 11), which signifies chilled the third month of the civil, and ninth of the sacred year. The Saxons called it Wint monath, or wind month. Its zodiacal sign is ♐ Sagittarius or the Archer, used to denote the hunting season of ancient times.

DECEMBER.

DECEMBER derives its name from the Latin decem, "ten:" as in the Roman year instituted by Romulus, beginning with March, it was the tenth month. It answers to the Jewish TISHRI (Esth. ii. 16) which signifies my, and is the fourth of their civil, and tenth of their sacred year. By the Saxons it was called Heoly-monath, or holy month, in reference to the birth of Christ. Its zodiacal sign is ♄, Capricornus, or the Goat.

SECTION II.

HIS HIGHNESS THE NIZAM'S DOMINIONS.

PHYSICAL AND POLITICAL GEOGRAPHY OF THE TERRITORY
ADMINISTERED BY HIS HIGHNESS THE NIZAM.Physical features of the country, extent, area and population

The dominions of His Highness the Nizam form a lateral square, situated between  $15^{\circ} 10'$  and  $21^{\circ} 50'$  north latitude and between  $74^{\circ} 15'$  and  $81^{\circ} 30'$  east longitude.

They are bounded on the north by the province of Khandesh and the river Tapti, which separates them from the district of Burhanpur in the Bombay Presidency on the south by the rivers Tungabadra and Krishna, forming the northern boundary of the districts of Bellary, Karnul and Guntur, and by the district of Masulpatam, all in the Madras Presidency, on the east by the rivers Warliha and Godavari, which flow along the western limits of the districts of Chanda and Sironcha, both in the Central Provinces and on the west by the districts of Dindur, Kalyan, Sholapur and Ahmednagar, all in the Bombay Presidency. A portion of the river Sina also forms the western boundary of the Nizam's dominions, but the taluks of Jamher, Bara and a part of Kagaum, all belonging to the British territory, are to the east of that river. Similarly, a part of the river Godavari separates the Nizam's dominions on the west from British territory, but a few villages of the Nizam's dominions are situated beyond that river.

The territories included in the boundaries above described have never been systematically surveyed under the orders of the Government of the Nizam, but the result of the trigonometrical survey (as given in a book published under the authority of the Government of India) shows the area of the Nizam's dominions to be 97,857 square miles.

The Nizam's dominions consist of a hilly tract of country, elevated about 1,800 feet above the level of the sea, and situated to the north of the plateau of the Dekkan. The country is divided into two great and nearly equal divisions, by the trappean rocks to the north and west, and the granitic and limestone region to the south and east. There is a corresponding agreement between the geological aspect and the political nature of the country, thus divided by the Godavary and the Masura separating as they do the Mahratta race from the Telinga and Kanarese people of the south, the country of granite and limestone from the region of overlying rocks, and the land of rice and tanks from the land of wheat and cotton. There is likewise a distinction in their physical features. The characteristics of the granite country are solitary, hairless, dome-shaped hills, prismatic fractured summits, feather-bed appearance of masses of rocks and the wild and fantastic towers and logging stones piled in heaps of two and three. The decomposed soil derived from these is invariably sandy, and does not possess that fertility which is seen in trappean districts, while for the same reason the rivers also are dry except during the rains, and hence the necessity for tanks to accumulate the supply of water. The north, on the other hand, is often picturesque, the undulating outlines, steep like ascents, abrupt crags and cliffs, and detached eminences present a much greater variety of scenic aspect than is produced by the granite hills while the soil produced by the decomposition of many traps is genial, productive, and retentive of moisture. Thus the trap district is generally synonymous with fertility. Forest vegetation is scanty and stunted among the traps, while granite tracts are covered with brushwood but densely grown jungles are principally confined to the sandstone and shales in the valley of the Godavari, the Wardha, and the Krishna.

The climate of the dominions during the greater part of the year is temperate and agreeable, being a medium between the extremes of heat and cold. The rainfall is mainly dependent on the summer rains brought up by the south-west monsoon, but the eastern and southern portions of the country are also influenced by the autumn rains, when the same currents are deflected on the eastern coast. From its peculiar geographical position, the country is thus brought within the influence of these vapour-bearing currents from almost opposite points of the compass, and, although these may be said to be general for nearly three-quarters of the year, the summer monsoon, from its greater depth and volume, exercises a far more important influence over the country than the winter monsoon. It might also be expected that the distribution of rain would vary according to the distance from the coast, but in descending over the Western Ghats the portions immediately to the east of these hills receive less rain, while the increase beyond is only gradual. There is, however, a limit to this increase, and as the country falls in the valley, of the principal rivers the upper currents veer round towards the eastern coast and constitute the winter monsoon. Hence the rains of the summer monsoon are quite general, though not equally distributed throughout the country. The average rainfall during the year is 32 inches.

According to the Census of His Highness' Dominions, taken in February 1891, the total population is 1,18,32,828 as detailed below —

SECTION IIa.

Review of the Report on Administration of H. H. the Nizam's Dominions by the Prime Minister.

YOUR HIGHNESS,

Since my accession to the office of Minister, I have submitted for Your Highness' approval, from time to time, Progress Reports giving brief descriptions of the manner in which the General Administrative work of the Dominions is being carried on. The present is a brief report for 1298 Fasli. But it is proposed to submit, in future, reports with more complete details of the Administrative work of each Department. The delay in submitting an Annual Administration Report is partly attributable to the circumstance that hitherto it has not been the practice to submit reports annually, the report for 1294 Fasli being the only exhaustive report ever published, and partly to the difficulty of procuring accurate returns from the various Departments of Government; but as stringent orders have been given for their punctual submission in future, it is hoped that it will now be easy to publish regular Administration Reports of Your Highness' Dominions.

The present report comprises accounts of the working of the following Departments in the same order as was adopted in the report for 1294 Fasli.—

I will now proceed to give a brief résumé of the work done in the foregoing Departments during the year under report.

Under this head the most important matter during the year under report was the dispute regarding the Political and General. Deccan Mining Company, which had been established to work a concession of the mining rights of the Dominions granted by Your Highness to Messrs Watson, Stewart and other concessionaires. In consequence of certain exposures regarding the manner in which the concession had been disposed of to an English Company, it was considered necessary to suspend Sirdar Diler-ul-Mulk, through whom the negotiations had been conducted, and to depute the Political and Financial Secretary (Nawab Mohsin-ul-Mulk) to England, as a representative of His Highness' Government, to give evidence before a Commission which had been appointed by Parliament to enquire into the affair, and after his return, Nawab Fattch Navaz Jung, Bahadur, remained in England in the same capacity to watch the case in behalf of this Government. An arrangement was subsequently arrived at with the company under which additional capital for the working of the company was provided and certain modifications in the agreement, between the Company and Your Highness' Government, were also arranged which received the sanction of Government from time to time.

The claims of the Government against Sirdar Diler-ul-Mulk have been referred to the High Court of Bombay for adjudication. In all these negotiations carried on in England, or in India, the Government received at every time material assistance from the Secretary of State for India, the Government of India, and the Resident, for which the Government is highly grateful.

The most important administrative change during the year was the abolition of the office of Judicial and Administrative Changes. Police Secretary and the incorporation of that Department with the Home Secretariat. By this change a considerable saving has been effected to Government and the efficiency of the administration has also benefited in a like proportion.

The Railway and Mining Departments, which were formerly attached to the Home Office, have been transferred to the Public Works Department, and a few Minor Departments, such as Forests, &c., have been removed from the Home to the Revenue Office.

The constitution of the Government has remained practically unchanged. To Your Highness, as Head of the Government and the State, all important questions, administrative and others, are referred by the Minister. The duties of the four Muin-ul-Mohams, who work under the Minister, are distributed as follows.—

Revenue and Regular }
and Irregular Troops } Nawab Moonir-ul-Mulk, Bahadur.

Judicial—Nawab Fakher-ul-Mulk, Bahadur.

Police—Nawab Shahab Jung, Bahadur.

Miscellaneous—Nawab Khair-ul-Khana, Bahadur.

The work of the office of the Political and Financial Secretary, (in which are included the Accountant General's office and the Treasury) as well as that of the Railway and Mining Departments, Daftar Mulki and English Secretary's Office is subordinated direct to the Minister.

The Secretariat comprises eight Secretaries as follows:—

The total number of cognizable offences reported during the year was 7,609, showing a small decrease as compared with the preceding year. Dacoities increased from 167 to 251, during the year under report. This increase is mainly due to the circumstance that dacoities are now returned under their proper head and not included in the general crime statistics as was formerly the case, and also that all occurrences of this nature in the Paigah and other Jagirs are now taken cognizance of by the District Police.

The number of arrests in the year under report was 14,214, and convictions were obtained in 5,292 cases. The amount of stolen property was Rs. 4,18,841, of which Rs. 1,85,326 was recovered.

These Police are controlled by the Kotwal, or Commissioner, whose jurisdiction extends over 28 square miles with a population of 3,47,757. The City Police total strength of the force during the year was 3,148, or one policeman to every 110 inhabitants. The cost of the force amounted to Rs. 4,18,752.

In 40 cases the decrees were fully executed, in 27 the decrees were partially satisfied and in 106 the applications for execution were dismissed. In 61 cases movable property was attached, in 8 cases movable and immovable property was seized and in 8 immovable property alone was given in satisfaction of the decree.

At the close of 1297 Fush there was a balance of Rs. 93,775 due to decree holders, and during the year under report Rs. 3,29,948

The total cost of litigation on the cases disposed of during the year was as follows:—

Stamps.....	Rs. 1,73,805

There were 8,671 applications for the execution of decrees. The number of persons implicated in these cases was 44,455, of whom 22,327 were prosecuted by the Police. The total number of persons convicted was 10,281, of whom 4,114 were sentenced to various terms of imprisonment, 5,904 were fined and 212 flogged. The number of prisoners in the Central Jail at Hyderabad at the close of 1297 Fush was 759 and 755 additional prisoners were received during the year, making a total of 1,514, of whom 639 were released on expiration of sentence, 48 transferred to other Jails, 14 released on appeal, 4 enlarged pending disposal of appeals, 14 released on payment of fine or providing security and 2 transferred to the Lunatic Asylum. There was one execution, and 19 prisoners died in the Jail, leaving total of 778 prisoners at the close of the year.

Government Servants ... ..	26

Other callings ... ..	198

of the prisoners admitted to the Central Jail, during the year, 557 were males and 57 females.

The expenditure on diet, per prisoner, was Rs. 48-7-1 and on clothing Rs. 4-13-3, both of which items show an increase as compared with previous years. The total expenditure under all heads was Rs. 82,866-11-8, giving an average cost per prisoner of Rs. 96-6-1.

This Department was created four months after the commencement of the year under report. The receipts amount to Rs. 90,334, and the expenditure to Rs. 27,985. There were 123 Registration offices opened throughout the Dominions. The total number of registrations during the year was 14,885 and the value of property effected by Registration was Rs. 53,13,085.

The income of the City and Chudderghaut Municipalities is derived, almost exclusively, from the Government, which makes a grant of 2½ lacs of Rupees to each from the Octroi duties collected by the Customs Department. During the year a sum of Rs. 43,517 was expended on the construction and maintenance of roads and Rs. 5,864 on drains. Full details regarding the rest of the expenditure, cost of establishment, &c., have not been received.

The Chudderghaut Municipality expended Rs. 42,000 on drains, Rs. 78,000 on conservancy and Rs. 16,000 on roads. It is proposed to introduce taxation within the limits of both Municipalities, thus relieving Government from the burden of having to provide funds, and with this object certain rules were passed by the Council of State during the year and referred to both Municipal Committees for report.

A proposal made by the Public Works Department to introduce a water-supply for the suburbs from the Hoosain Saugor Tank was sanctioned during the year, and it is hoped that, with the introduction of pure water, the Public health will undergo a proportionate improvement. It is also intended to provide the city with a water-supply, and plans for it are under preparation.

The strength of the Regular Troops was practically the same as in the year previous. The number of combatants was 8,500. There were 17 District court-martials during the year, and the medical statistics show a marked improvement in the general health of the force.

The total number of the Irregular Troops of all arms, during the year, was 20,676 distributed as follows:—

City (Infantry and Sowars )	...	...	...	15,158
Districts ( do. do. )	...	...	...	5,518
				20,676

The expenditure amounted to Rs. 48,19,204, as compared with Rs. 48,14,552 in the previous year.

It was formerly the custom to distribute the pay of these Troops through their Jemadars or Commanders, who were held responsible for its proper disbursement. As Government had no means of checking this expenditure, an order was issued for the payment of all sums through the office of the Nazim-i-Jamiyat, or Under Secretary of the Irregular Troops. Considerable opposition was experienced in enforcing the order at first, as the Jemadars and others regarded it as an unwarrantable interference with their vested rights. Government, however, was firm, and the result is that almost all the Troops are now receiving their pay monthly through the above named office.

The arms and uniforms of the Troops leave much to be desired, and it is hoped that it will be possible to make some improvement in this direction shortly.

In addition to the Irregulars mentioned above, there is a small force, amounting to 1,107, styled Nazam Mahaboob, maintained at a yearly cost of Rs. 2,89,782.

The total strength of this Brigade is 1,475, costing Rs. 4,03,054 per annum. The officers and men are encouraged to make themselves efficient at Polo, Tent-pegging and other athletic exercises, while flag signalling, heliography, &c., are systematically taught.

A school has also been opened in the Fort of Golconda, where the Brigade is stationed, the cost of which is provided for voluntarily by the officers. The Brigade is organised and equipped, as far as possible, on the model of the English Army, but the Artillery is at present only supplied with Bullocks, for which it is proposed to substitute horses.

The total expenditure during the year was Rs. 12,92,573, of which Rs. 5,28,367 was spent on original works, Public Works. Rs. 83,998 on miscellaneous improvements, and the cost of the establishment was Rs. 3,29,790, being 26·88 on the total outlay of the Department.

As a water famine was apprehended during the year, a sum of half a lakh of Rupees was sanctioned for the construction of water carts to convey water to those parts of the suburbs in which scarcity was apprehended.

Under an arrangement with the British authorities, the Government has contributed the sum of Government Rs. 36,040 towards the cost of laying the main water-supply pipe from the Hoosain Saugor Tank to the filter-bed at Naraingoodah, and during this year sanction was given for the commencement of water works for the supply of Chudderghaut and other suburbs. The construction of filter-beds and the laying down of cast-iron pipes was almost completed. The total cost of works, as estimated, was Rs. 3,64,353, of which Rs. 1,42,555 was spent during the year.

The general stores and workshops, which were established 16 years ago, work under the supervision of the Public Works Department. The value of the annual amount of work executed is Rs. 1,08,082, and the average annual number of orders received five hundred. The stores in hand are valued at Rs. 1,01,662 and the cost of stationery supplied to the various Government Departments was Rs. 22,333.

The Telephone Branch, which works under the Workshops, is maintained at an annual expenditure of Rs. 21,040. There are sixty connections, covering a distance of 139 miles, and 900 iron standards have been erected instead of bamboo poles at a cost of Rs. 80,380.

The second section of the extension from Wurrangul to Dornakul, including the branch to the mines, was completed and opened during the year. Its total length, including the mineral branch, is 70 miles, and the outlay upon it during the year was Rs. 27,90,825. The net Railway receipts were Rs. 6,69,016 and the working expenses were 12,05,142.

- * The average daily out-turn of coal was sixty tons, and experiments have shown that the coal produced at the colliery is but little inferior to English, and better than any other Indian coal.

The number of schools, Government aided and private, is 3,123, being more than double the number which existed in the previous year. This large increase is mainly due to a considerable number of indigenous schools being brought under the control of the Department. The number of pupils in Government schools is 27,722, in aided schools 5,719, and under private instruction 26,851. The schools are classed as follows:—

Colleges ...	...	..	2
Special Schools ..	..	...	4
High Schools ...	..	...	10
Middle Schools ..	..	...	33
Primary Schools	..	..	3,074

The largest increase in Government and aided schools occurred in the Eastern Division, where 16 new institutions were opened during the year. Marathi was the language most extensively studied during the year, it having been taken up by 11,067 pupils, Urdu by 9,201, Telugu by 7,989, and English by 3,553. The income from fees amounted to Rs. 87,416, or an increase of 26 per cent. on the preceding year. The total expenditure was Rs. 4,94,850. The educational cess collected in the four Divisions amounted to Rs. 94,080, and was expended in the partial maintenance of primary schools in the Districts.

The total income of this Department was Rs. 50,55,387, being an increase of upwards of 3 lakhs as compared with the preceding year. The largest increases occurred under the heads of Cloth, Fruits, Gold, Silver and Jewels, an indication that the year was a prosperous one for the people of the Dominions.

The total expenditure was Rs. 2,55,118, being an increase of upwards of Rs. 11,000 as compared with the year previous. The total number of letters, both Government and private, was 28,37,275, or an average of one letter to every four persons of the total estimated population of the Dominions. The number of Post Offices opened was 191, being an increase of one on the previous year. The number of postmen employed was 478, or an average of one to every 173 square miles.

The total revenue was Rs. 38,568, being an increase of 14,000 as compared with the year previous, and the expenditure was Rs. 44,677.

Mint.

The total receipts during the year amounted to Rs. 6,96,389 exclusive of Rs. 5,47,780, the value of stamps supplied to the Resident for use in the territories under his jurisdiction. The total expenditure was Rs. 68,170, leaving a surplus of Rs. 6,33,218, being an increase of Rs. 47,056 as compared with the previous year. During the year a committee was nominated to draft a Stamp Act for the Dominions. The Act received the assent of Government towards the close of the year and has already appreciably affected the revenue of the Department. An attempt made to substitute country for English made paper failed as the quantity produced fell far short of the demand. The actual value of the stamped paper produced was as follows.—

Judicial stamps, including those supplied to the Resident, Saif-i-khas, Jaghirdars, &c.	Rs. 30,10,877
Postage stamps .....	„ 60,608
Envelopes .....	„ 11,818

The revenue under this head was Rs. 35,05,960, as against Rs. 34,43,851 in the preceding year, showing an increase of Rs. 62,603.

Excise.

There was a deficiency of nearly seven inches in the rainfall as compared with the year previous, and in Telungana there was consequently considerable falling off in the crop out-turn.

Weather and Crops.

The income of this Department was Rs. 79,344, being a slight increase on the year previous. The expenditure was Rs. 94,684, resulting in a net loss to Government of Rs. 15,339. Arrangements have been made to send some students to the Forest School at Dehra Dun to be trained. But little has been done during the year to demarcate State Reserves, and the result has been that frequent disputes have arisen between the Government officials and Jaghirdars. It is proposed to form a large reserve in the Nagur-Kurnool District and elsewhere, which, when sanctioned by Government, will give an additional area of about 2,125 square miles of Forest. The Dark-hast system, under which contractors were allowed to cut down all kinds of trees, has been abolished, and a more complete system of forest protection has been introduced.

The amount sanctioned for Irrigation Works was Rs. 10 lakhs, but the actual expenditure was only Rs. 4,30,073 including Rs. 1,01,235 on account of outstandings for the previous year. During the year, 64 works at the estimated cost of Rs. 3,68,260 were sanctioned by the Irrigation Board, and 427 estimates, of the value of Rs. 1,21,885, were passed by the Taluqdars. The estimated increase of Revenue from works sanctioned by the Board during the year is Rs. 65,567. In the Jambikunta Taluk of the Yelgundul District, 89 tanks were breached owing to heavy rainfall, and 57 other tanks in the same District suffered similarly. The cost of establishment was Rs. 2,71,154.

The total demand of land revenue was Rs. 1,84,44,449 as compared with Rs. 1,89,65,288 in the previous year, showing a decrease of Rs. 5,20,838 which was mainly due to an unfavorable season. The total realizations were Rs. 1,81,92,731, leaving outstandings amounting to Rs. 2,51,718, giving a percentage of collections to demand of 98.58.

Work was carried on in four Divisions and the strength of the Department was as under:—

Survey

Superintendents ..	...	...	...	...	4
Assistants...	...	...	...	...	17
Sub-Assistants ..	...	...	...	...	17
Attaché ... ..	...	...	...	...	1
Measuring Establishments	...	...	...	...	7
Classing do.	...	...	...	...	4
Combined do.	...	...	...	...	1

The measuring establishments were reduced from 14 to 8. The number of villages surveyed was 320 and the acreage 7,18,935. The cost of measurement amounted to Rs. 1,35,835 or 8 annas per acre as compared with 2 annas and 10 pies in the previous year. No Taluks were settled during the year, 1,852 village maps and 9 Taluk maps were prepared during the year in the Gulburgah office. The total cost of the Department amounted to Rs. 3,35,149.

Sanction was given during the year to the establishment of two survey schools, but they were not opened.

The state revenue, including the opening balance of Rs. 63,11,264 amounted to Rs. 4,88,39,144, whilst the Receipts and Disbursements total expenditure stood at Rs. 4,05,96,248 leaving a cash balance at the close of the year of Rs. 82,42,901. The general financial result is, therefore, very satisfactory.

There was a decrease of Rs. 5,51,483 in land revenue chiefly due to an unfavorable season in Tellingana.

The import and export duties show an increase of Rs. 4,05,407, mainly attributable to the expansion of trade brought about by the opening of the Railway.

Under Excise, the City receipts show a falling-off of Rs. 58,512 and in Secunderabad and Bolarum there is a decrease of Rs. 14,992 and Rs. 4,170, respectively. But in the Districts there is an increase of Rs. 89,523.

The stamp revenue exhibits an increase of Rs. 1,23,267 from revenue stamps, while there is a falling-off of Rs. 85,969 in judicial stamps.

The opium revenue in the District shows a slight increase, but that in the City has declined by Rs. 51,366, thus giving a total deficit of Rs. 50,270 in the estimated income under this head.

The amount received on account of the Berar Surplus was Rs. 5,77,517 less than in the preceding year.

The Revenue under Law and Justice shows a decrease of Rs. 14,870.

The Educational receipts exhibit a decrease of Rs. 9,096 as compared with the preceding year.

The income under the head of Minor Departments shows an increase of Rs. 95,048.

There is an increase of Rs. 2,58,322 under the head miscellaneous.

There was a decrease of Rs. 52,087 in the expenditure under the head of General Administration chiefly owing to a reduced expenditure on account of the Minister's honorarium. In the accounts for this year the sums paid to the Revenue Dastardars, which were previously shown under the head of Roosums, are included in the charges for General Administration, but no charge is made for the honorarium allowed to the Minister, as it was not drawn. No expenditure was incurred in this year on account of the Peshkar's honorarium after the death of the late Peshkar owing to the fact that no settlement was made of the question regarding the succession to the Peshkar's Office. The expenditure on the Medical Department shows an increase of Rs. 58,844, chiefly owing to the purchase of medical stores and instruments. The payments to Your Highness show an increase of Rs. 2,10,728 mostly due to payments of arrears. The small decrease of Rs. 15,522 under the head of Khillats and entertainments does not call for any remark. The expenditure on the Irregular Troops has decreased by Rs. 4,61,672; because several Jamadars refused to submit to the new Government order requiring troops under their command to attend at the office of the Nazm-i-Jamiat to receive their pay. The expenditure on account of State debts is Rs. 19,62,195 less than in the preceding year. This is chiefly owing to the fact that only some 27 lakhs of Rupees were borrowed during the year as against 34 lakhs in the year previous.

Owing to the changes made in the various Government Departments a number of officials were thrown out of employment, some of whom continued to draw full salaries, while others were placed on half pay, and some drew no salaries at all. During the year Rules were framed for the purpose of dealing with the cases of those so situated. One hundred and thirty-six officials drawing salaries amounting to Rs. 10,998 per mensem were borne on the reduced list. To these must be added a hundred and twenty one men removed from the City Police who were drawing salaries aggregating Rs. 1,424 a month, the total number thus amounting to 257 on Rs. 12,417 a month. Subsequent to the promulgation of the Rules above alluded to, a number of other names were added to the Register, bringing the total up to 393 men, with salaries aggregating Rs. 23,293. A careful enquiry was made into the claims of all these officials with the result that 164 were re-appointed, 76 pensioned and 71 received gratuities, and the cases of the remainder were still under consideration at the close of the year.

In concluding this brief review of the year under report I desire to express my satisfaction with the cordial assistance and support which I have received from the Muin-ul-Mohams, the Secretaries, and the heads of Departments.

SECTION III.

HISTORICAL SUMMARY.

The Southern and Eastern portions of the Dominions of His Highness the Nizam were doubtless in common with the rest of Southern India peopled in pre-historic times by the great Dravidian race, at which the Telugu-speaking divisions are to the present day the most numerous portion. The Dravidians entered India some time previous to the Aryans. They established themselves in separate nationhoods, each of which possessed its own language and institutions. Their kingdoms were noted for the high state of civilization which existed in them, but the period at which they were founded is too distant to be embraced within the confines of modern historical research. The name of the district which the Telugu-speaking people inhabit, Telengana, is derived by the natives from Tri-Linga, or the country between the three Lingas—one of which was situated to the west at Sri Sala Parvatam in the Sibal hills, another to the north at Simha-shellam, and the third to the south at Kotupalli, 43 miles from Mundigalam. It seems more likely, however, that Telengana is derived from Tri-Kalinga, or the three "Kalingas," a name applied to the Telugu country in inscriptions.

The early traditions of Dakshinaputti, or the Dekkan, of which His Highness' dominions occupy a considerable area of the central portion, are related in the two great epic poems of the Ramayana and the Mahabharata. The Kalingas are mentioned several times in the latter. Both poems are too well-known to need more than a passing mention here. The great forest of Dandaka mentioned in the former, in which Rama and Sita wandered, covered a considerable portion of the Dekkan. The story of her abduction during her husband's absence by the King of Ceylon is familiar to all students of oriental literature. Rama rescued the intelligence while at the court of a king named Sugriva, who resided at Kishkinda, a place that has been identified with Vasalagar and Annamalai on the Tungabhadra river. According to the Ramayana, Kishkinda was founded by Hanukha Kumara, who became the progenitor of a line of kings whose emblem was the monkey. His successors were subsequently displaced by a neighbouring ruler who captured Kishkinda. The line, however, was restored by Ravana, who placed Sugriva on the throne. He was reigning at the time of his abduction, and animated Rama in his expedition to Ceylon for her recovery. The next dynasty which exercised sway in the Dekkan is that of the Pandavas, who are mentioned in the Mahabharata.

The first Aryan invaders reached the Dekkan and Southern India in the fifth and sixth centuries B.C., and during the next three centuries the work of colonization went on rapidly. The inhabitants either submitted to the yoke of caste introduced by their conquerors, or took to the hills and led a roving semi-savage life as the Bhils, Gonds, and others. The only tribe which escaped the subjugation and caste influences of the conquerors are the Vedas of the Nilgiri Hills, a vigorous race who to the present day live in complete isolation. The great Buddhist King Asoka, who reigned from 273 to 233, extended his dominions as far south as the upper and lower course of the Godavari. Thus the whole of Borar and a considerable portion of the north-western and southern districts of the country now belonging to the Nizam were included in his dominions. His inscriptions state that he waged war against the Kalingas, who possessed the land south of Orissa. He made prisoners, but all were released, none were put to death. This is ascribable to his zeal for the tenets of Buddha, who forbade the destruction of life. Amongst the lists of conquered nations enumerated in Asoka's inscriptions, the name Peterikas occurs, who, according to Lassen, were the inhabitants of the city and land of Pithan on the upper Godavari. After Asoka's death his kingdom was divided between his sons, and the dynasty ceased to exist about 190 B.C.

in consequence of the solicitation of the Rajah of Orissa, who had become jealous of the extension of his neighbour's power." In 1303 the Yadava Rajah of Deogarh rebelled, and refused to pay tribute. An expedition under the command of Malik Kafur was despatched against him, through Malwa and Khambhoj. The Rajah was made prisoner and taken to Delhi, but was pardoned and restored to his kingdom. A second expedition was sent against Warangal in 1309, under the command of Malik Kafur, which resulted in the submission of the Rajah and a promise to pay tribute. Next year an expedition under the same commander was sent against the Balala Rajah of Dwarka Samudra in the Karnatic. The Rajah was made prisoner and his capital plundered. The Mahomedan historians relate that the army returned to Delhi early in 1311 with the spoils of the expedition, which consisted of six hundred and twelve elephants, nearly-six thousand muls of gold, several boxes of jewels and pearls and twenty thousand horses. Dwarka Samudra is situated about 100 miles north-west of Srirangapatna, where its ruins may still be seen. There is story to the effect that one of Alau-d-din's daughters fell in love with the Balala Rajah from the reports of his valour, and threatened to destroy herself unless married to him. Eventually his sword was sent as his representative, with the promise that the Princess was formally wedded and then joined the Rajah. They lived happily for ten years, after which he was induced by the consideration that he was a Rajput, and who of inferior caste to put her away. This circumstance is said to have led to the second Mahomedan expedition to his capital, sixteen years afterwards, which resulted in the complete demolition of the City. In 1312 the Rajah Samkara of Dongur rebelled but was made prisoner by Malik Kafur and put to death. Malik Kafur had waste the whole of the country as far south as Madurai and Raichur. He subsequently returned to Delhi, and during his absence Harpala, who had married a sister of the Rajah put to death by Malik Kafur, revolted and drove out the Mahomedan troops. He was made prisoner and executed in 1315, and with him ended the Yadava dynasty which had reigned at Deogarh for upwards of one hundred and thirty years.

The Mahomedan power had now become firmly established throughout the northern portion of the Dekkan and King Kuthub-d-din, who had succeeded to the throne a month after the death of his father and the assassination of Malik Kafur who had attempted to usurp it, before leaving Deogarh, whether he had led an expedition against Harpala, appointed governors and revenue collectors for the different districts of the Dekkan. A third expedition was despatched against Warangal in 1314 under the command of Khusru Khan, but it appears to have accomplished nothing. In 1321 the first of the Tughlak Sultans, who had succeeded to the throne at Delhi, after the murder of Kutub-d-din by Khusru Khan and the execution of the latter, sent an expedition against Warangal. The command was given to Ulugh Khan, his son. The expedition was a failure and returned to Deogarh. The King, however, sent reinforcements to his son and Warangal and its ruler were captured. In 1325 Mohamed Tughlak succeeded to the throne. The Mahomedans had now acquired possession of the whole of the central and southern portions of the Dekkan, and the chief Rajahs or Telingana acknowledged their sway and paid tribute. The principal events of his reign in relation to the Dekkan are his endeavour to make Deogarh, the name of which he changed to Daulatabad, the capital of his Dominions, and the revolts of the governors of the Dekkan provinces, which resulted in the establishment of the great Bahmani dynasty.

The reduction of Warangal in 1321 (it was not finally reduced till 1421 by the Bahmani King Ahmed Shah Wali, but its independence was a thing of the past) followed by the destruction of Dwarka Samudra, the Capital of the Karnatik, in 1325, left the Hindu Kingdoms of the south practically without a capital, but in 1336 the state of Vijayanagar, which took its name from the capital on the Tungubhadra, and which was destined to become the last great Hindu state of the South, was founded. Anagundi, which is situated on the opposite bank of the river in the Nizam's dominions, was a suburb of the great capital.

The Bahmani dynasty lasted from 1347 to 1518. The last four kings, however, were but nominal rulers, all the power being wielded by their Prime Minister, who subsequently established the Barid Shahi dynasty at Bidar. Mahomed Shah Bahmani, who died in 1517, was the last great ruler of the house. During his reign the Governors of the great Bahmani provinces declared their independence at the time of his death his territories had become reduced to a few districts. The Imad Shahi dynasty of Berar was established by the Governor, Imad-ul-mulk, in 1482. Yusuf Ali Khan established the Adil Shahi dynasty at Bijapur in 1489, Ahmad Nizam Shah declared his independence and established himself at Ahmednagar about the same period, his dynasty is known as the Nizam Shahi, and fourthly the Kutub Shahi dynasty was established at Golkonda by Kutub-ul-mulk in 1519. The Governor of the Golkonda dependencies had been virtually independent since the death of Mahomed Shah Bahmani in 1482, but he did not assume the title of royalty until the year mentioned above.

The last Bahmani campaign in 1477 had established garrisons at Bahajmandin on the sea coast in the north, and the country as far south as the Krishna had been subdued. When the division of the kingdom took place Golkonda comprised the country along the left bank of the Krishna as far as its junction with the Bhima and then stretched in an irregular line to the hills to the south-west. The Rayhur District was attached to Bijapur, which also annexed the western provinces. The northern provinces, including the famous stronghold of Daulatabad, fell to the Nizam Shahs of Ahmadnagar, who also annexed Berar in 1572. The Moghal conquest was commenced by Akbar and completed by Aurangzeb, but how incomplete it was is best shown by the rapid decline of the Moghal power in this part of India immediately after the death of the latter whose boast was that he was the only prince who exercised sovereign sway throughout India. The death of Aurangzeb at Ahmadnagar in 1707, where he had retired after his long and uneventful contest with the Marathas, was followed by a civil war between his sons for the possession of the kingdom. A battle was fought in the vicinity of Agra between Azim Shah and Shah Alau, which resulted in the defeat and death of the former. Shah Alau, who had assumed the title "Bahadur Shah," wrote to his younger brother Prince Kam Baksh, who was Governor of the Suba of Muzpur, offering to add the Suba of Hyderabad to his Governorship and to relinquish all claims for tribute provided the guns were drack and the Kurba read in the name of the new Emperor. This offer the Mahomedan historians say, Prince Kam Baksh sent a refusal and prepared to invade the kingdom with the Emperor. The brothers met about 5 or 10 miles from Hyderabad Bahadur Shah having with him a force of 8,000 horse, while Kam Baksh's followers had been reduced by numerous disorders to less than 400. The Emperor, who appears to have been actuated by a desire to prevent unnecessary bloodshed, gave orders to his commanders to surround his brother, but not to commence fighting until he gave the signal. The latter portion of his order was disobeyed, and in the fighting which ensued, Kam Baksh and both his sons were wounded and made prisoners. The father and one son died the same night in the Emperor's camp.

Hyderabad was placed under a Subadar, who was appointed Governor of the whole of the Dekkan. Bahadur Shah died in 1711, and after a brief conflict between his sons was succeeded by Jahandar Shah. He reigned for 11 months only and was killed in a battle near Agra between his forces, and those of Mahomed Farukshiyar, the grandson of Bahadur Shah. Farukshiyar was crowned king in 1712, and one of his first acts was to create Kalich Khan, Subadar of the Dekkan, with the title of Nizam-ul-mulk Bahadur, Faizah Jung. From this period the dynasty of the Nizam was practically independent.

SECTION IV.

PLACES OF INTEREST IN THE METROPOLIS

City of Hyderabad—Hyderabad is pleasantly situated on the right bank of the river Musi, which is crossed by three bridges in the immediate vicinity of the City. The first is named the Oliphant Bridge, after Colonel Oliphant, who, with the assistance of the Sappers attached to the old Russell Brigade, built it in 1831, during the reign of Nizam Nasir-ud-Daula. The second bridge, which was erected by the late Minister, Sir Salar Jung, and which forms the nearest and most useful means of communication between the city and suburbs, is called the Afzal, after the Nizam Afzul-ud-Daula. Prior to its construction visitors to the city had to drive to the Residency, and proceed from thence on elephants, as that was the only the manner in which the river could be crossed. Similarly the Minister or any of the Nobles going to pay a visit to the Resident cross the stream on palanquins or on horseback or elephants. To the right of the bridge is the Sole mound, from which Hindu widows used to precipitate themselves into the turbulent waters below. The third, which is styled the old Bridge, and which was built in the time of the Golkonda kings is about a mile beyond the Afzal.

According to the census taken in February 1971, the population of the City of Hyderabad is 1,31,770 and including the suburbs 9,97,801. The city, which is about six miles in circumference, covers an area of a little over two miles. It is built in the shape of a trapezoid and is surrounded by a high stone wall flanked with strong bastions. It has no ditch. The wall was originally built by Nizam Ali Khan, the first of the Nizams of Hyderabad, and was completed by the first of the Nizams after he had made the city his capital.

The scenery around Hyderabad is very picturesque, the country being undulating and hilly, and dotted with numerous granite peaks and isolated rocks. Of the latter a pile to the north of the city, springing to the height of about fifty feet from the plain is the most remarkable. It is styled Nizam Look-out. A flight of steps is built on one end of the rock from the summit of which a view of the country for miles may be obtained, terminating in the direction of the west with the gloomy old fort of the Golkonda, with the massive tombs of the Kutub Shahi Kings in the foreground. Close by is a peak styled the Black Rock, from the summit of which there is a delightful view of the City of Hyderabad and the great Cantonment of Secunderabad with the noble Hussain Sagar lake between the two. Viewed from here Hyderabad appears to occupy the middle of a gently undulating plain, bounded on all sides with rock summits. Approached from the west the city presents a most striking appearance. The tapering minarets of the Char Minar and the lofty domes and massive building of the Mecca Masjid are visible long before the rest of the buildings which comprise the city are discernible. The gardens and pleasure houses of the Nizam and the court nobles which meet the gaze on all sides give a most picturesque effect to the view.

The city, which is very regularly built, contains thirteen gates, viz., the Chadarghat, Delhi, Afzal, Champa, Chir Mahal, Purana Pul, Durlim, Aliahad, Ghakipur, Chasaband, Mir Jumla, Yakatpur, and Daudpur. The main roads run from east to west and north to south, radiating from the Char Minar (Four Minarets) which is about the most central portion of the city. The streets are lined with lofty houses and spacious bazars, the most notable of the latter being the cloth bazaar, a handsome row of buildings facing an ornamental garden containing fountains and cisterns, the Arma Bazaar, where weapons of all kinds and of most curious design may be purchased, and the markets in the Chaur.

The street architecture of Hyderabad is not imposing, for with the exception of some buildings, there are few which have pretensions to much architectural merit. The palaces of some of the nobles, however, are an exception, many of them are very handsome buildings, and are furnished with everything that luxury can suggest. Most of the buildings now used by the nobles and upper classes as dwelling houses were erected a good many years ago, when times were troublous and street fights and disturbance the rule, and everybody who could afford it erected a secure place of refuge for himself and his belongings. The result is that most of the larger houses are exceedingly substantial buildings, provided with stout barwood gates and windows over which are quarters for the guard or a small garrison. The architecture of the houses is similar to that of most Oriental cities. The cloth bazaar which has been already mentioned is a very handsome building which the city owes to the late Minister who has also bestowed an additional gift upon it in the private garden which faces the bazaar. The principal roads of the city are fairly good but the others are not well looked after and some of the by lanes in the more crowded parts are almost impassable. Hyderabad is not the cleanest city in the country, but it comes out favourably with most oriental towns in this respect. The general health of the city is good and epidemic disease rare. Of late years a Municipality has been established, although it is difficult to control the actions of the people with regard to the disposal of dirt and refuse, yet much progress has been made and it is hoped that in course of time Hyderabad will come as well as a municipality as Bombay. The late Minister's experiment in representative government in the shape of a Municipal Committee to which both official and non official members are nominated has proved a complete success.

But it is not the city or the public buildings or bazaars and public thoroughfares of Hyderabad that present striking illustrations as they appear to the people who through them. The city is famed for having the most warlike population of any town in India. All the mahabatas, even the most respectable of them, carry a sword and a shield, while the military classes, which are largely a part of the population, about lately arrived to the north. The peculiar customs are simply the result of the military spirit of the people in former days when street fights and disturbances were the rule and townsmen who had any regard for their personal safety never quitted their habitations without some weapon or armour. All this has now changed, and Hyderabad has not a quarter of a century of peace and prosperity such as it had never before experienced. Still the custom of carrying a shield and sword has not died out, but in the majority of instances it has come to be a matter of form or ceremony. With the upper classes it is the rule to give a sword to each child of the family with an ornamented dagger stuck in the girdle, or a sword suspended from the gold chain belt which the majority wear. Servants and attendants imitate their masters and even most of the shopkeepers in the bazaar adopt the universal custom. Another striking peculiarity about Hyderabad is the magnificent display of the population. There is probably no other city in India which contains so many varieties of the human race. A ride through the town on one of the elephants which are always placed at the disposal of the people is one of the chief pleasures, enables the visitor to pick out, amongst the ever moving throng of people. The Arab of short stature built form fair complexion and frequently curly hair, in walking along with a somewhat swagger which is peculiar to the class who have participated so largely in the events of Dekkan history for the past three hundred years. He still adheres to the long, silver beaded, iron studded gun of his ancestors, and is never to be seen without a pile of arrows and a bow in his hand. Whenever an Arab chief passes through the city, his palanquin is surrounded by a shouting, surging crowd of Arab retainers who fire off guns and shout their master's titles at the top of their voices. Next may be seen the Sidi, thick lipped, shock headed, with a broad black face which needs but little provocation to ripple into smiles. He is bigger and stronger than the Arab, and like him is armed to the teeth. With slow and dignified step comes the Bohilla, eld and lofty pugri and long bla. Khattan, with the huge bell mouthed blunderbuss without which no Bohilla thinks of walking the street bare. His scarce concealed contempt for everyone about him is amusing. His profession of innate superiority is tolerated with great good humour unless pushed too far and then it is very speedily checked. Next may be seen a representative of the Pathans, who have been the cause of more trouble in Hyderabad than any other of the numerous nationalities.

Hyderabad contains upwards of 500 elephants, more than any other city in India. Many belong to private individuals, as elephant riding is a favourite method of locomotion in the city, and all State visits are paid in this manner.

The Cavalry Lines are situated opposite the elephant quarters. The men have good barracks and accommodation for their horses. Goshia Mahal is a military suburb adjoining Chadarghat on the west. Built in A.D. 1180, it has laid out its pleasure gardens with cisterns and fountains and built a residence here for its Zamindar. The place is now used for troop lines, the Infantry and Artillery of the Nizam's Regular Troops being situated here. This is the place which is said to have been connected with Golkonda by an underground tunnel.

Asafnagar.—A small village beyond the Ghosia Mahal troop lines on the road to Golkonda. There are some fine gardens here and a large tank. The largest of the gardens belongs to a wealthy Hindu banker whose family has for many years been associated with the Government in financial matters.

Jahanpore.—This suburb is situated to the south-west. It contains the beautiful gardens and palace of Nizam Ali Begum and family. The gardens, which were laid out many years since, are unsurpassed in Hyderabad. In palace with the datched balconies about the grounds contain great numbers of the most rare species in chamber pots, the majority of which were collected by the Nizam's Shikars and were killed in 1877. The gardens also contain a large collection of birds.

Nampally.—This suburb, which is but a small one, lies to the north of the city. The Railway station, which is situated on the Nizam's Road, is situated in it. It is chiefly remarkable for the great number of buildings which it contains, and the ground to the south-west of the station is laid out in vast numbers of small plots of every design, with and without domes, and is situated in the midst of beautiful gardens, and is remarkable for the great number of buildings which it contains. The Nizam's Road is laid for a considerable distance with the monuments of his highness's family. The most noteworthy is the tomb of Nizam Ali Begum, which lies to the north of the station. It was the spiritual father of the first Nizam. The monument of the Nizam's highness is situated by an urn or festival, which is situated by His Highness and the city of the Nizam's.

The Residency.—The Residency is situated in the north of the city, about the centre of the suburb. The Residency is a country house for the Resident at Balarum, 12 miles north-west. The building is situated in the midst of a beautiful park-like expanse, having large lawns and a large pond, and is surrounded by a high wall. The building was constructed under the supervision of Mr. R. H. of the British Legation, which is situated at the chief entrance facing the north. The palace, which is situated on the right of the gate, is 30 feet high. At the top of the steps is a large circular platform. The roof of the palace is supported by a fine columnar colonnade covered with chandeliers, and is to give them the appearance of a palace. In the palace the portico is decorated with arms in relief. The pavement is of marble, and the walls are of black and white marble squares, done in chandeliers. The lower story of the building consists of reception and sitting rooms handsomely furnished. In connection with the furniture it is worth mentioning that the chandeliers, mirrors, and other things that were sent out after the building had been finished, had been the property of the Prince Regent, afterwards George IV., who sold them to the company at a pretty high figure, and the Nizam had the pleasure of paying for them. The Durbar hall, which is on the ground floor, is 30 feet by 33 and fifty feet high. It is encircled by a gallery which is supported by 82 columns. The hall contains a number of fine oil paintings. The story above the hall contains a large suite of rooms which are used on State occasions. The angles of the staircase leading to them contain some fine pieces of marble statuary. These rooms are all most richly furnished and decorated. There is a suite of private rooms on the west attached to the main building by a gallery. Some years ago the grounds contained a house styled the Bang Mahal, built by Colonel Kirkpatrick for a Mahomedan lady whom he married. In this house the wives of former Residents used to give receptions to native ladies from the city. The building was

May 1853, in lieu of certain contingent and auxiliary forces, which had been previously raised by the Nizam, to co-operate with the British Army. The cost of the force is defrayed out of the revenues of certain districts ceded by the Nizam under the treaty of May 1853, revised by a second treaty in 1860. Up to the year 1850, previous to the head-quarters of the Subsidiary Force being stationed here, the Cantonment of Secunderabad consisted of a line of barracks and huts, extending for a distance of 3 miles from east to west, with the artillery, in the front and on the left flank, and the infantry on the right. Since that date, however, the Cantonment boundaries have been extended as far as Bolarum covering a total area of 19 square miles, including many interspersed villages. New double-storied barracks have been erected for the European soldiers, and the quarters for the Native troops, which are situated at some distance, are also comfortably built. The country for many miles around undulates into hummocks with a few outcrops of underlying rock, crossed from east to west by green-sandstone dikes. East of the Cantonment are two large outbursts of granite, in the north-east is a granite hill known as Mull Ali, and near it another called Kadam Raseel, from a legend that it bears an impress of Muhammed's foot. Shady trees line the roads of the Cantonment, and near the European barracks and Native lines are clusters of the date and palmyra palms. Otherwise the face of the country is bare, with but little depth of soil in the elevated parts. Cultivation is carried on in the dips and valleys, in several of which tanks have been constructed. The water-supply from wells is not abundant. Immediately to the south-west of the cantonment is a large artificial reservoir or tank, known as the Hussain Sagar, about 13 miles in circumference.

The parade ground of Secunderabad is of great extent, upon which a force of seven or eight thousand troops can be manoeuvred with ease. To the right of it are the public-rooms, to which members are elected by ballot. The rooms contain a theatre and library, &c., as well as dining and luncheon saloons. Close by is the cemetery, containing the graves of many officers who have died there. A short distance from Secunderabad is the Cantonment of Trimulgherry, containing an entrenched camp capable of accommodating all the Europeans in the neighbourhood. At Trimulgherry is the military prison, styled "Wandoor Castle." Here soldiers sentenced by court-martial to punishment are confined. The place contains fifty-two cells. It has also a clock tower, from the summit of which a distant view of Hyderabad may be obtained. The Hyderabad Subsidiary Force is not the sole body in the neighbourhood. Adjoining Secunderabad cantonment to the north is the Bolarum cantonment one of the stations of the Hyderabad Contingent. The force stationed here consists of one Regiment of cavalry, one of infantry and one battery of artillery. Again, about 5 miles south of Secunderabad cantonment are the lines of the Hyderabad Troops, belonging to the Nizam—comprising artillery, cavalry, and infantry under the command of a European Officer. Altogether, within space of 10 miles from north to south about 8,000 disciplined soldiers are cantoned. During the Mutiny of 1857 an unsuccessful attempt was made to tamper with the fidelity of the troops at Secunderabad. An attack on the British Residency was repulsed, and during the troubled times of 1857-58 much good service was rendered by both the Subsidiary Force and the Hyderabad Contingent. A short distance west of Secunderabad, Begumpett and Bowenpally are situated. The Pioneers are stationed at the first place, and a Madras Cavalry regiment at the latter.

SECTION V.

CONSTITUTION OF GOVERNMENT

His Highness is the head of the Government of the Dominions, and all important matters are referred to His Highness for sanction or final orders by the Minister. His Highness the Nizam also exercises the prerogative of calling for any papers, statements or reports in connection with any matter disposed of, or undergoing investigation by any of the Courts, Departments or other tribunals in his Dominions. Under instructions from His Highness the Minister waits upon him thrice a week with papers and other State documents for disposal or explanation. From His Highness also emanate all honours and titles of distinction conferred upon deserving officials of the State, lists being periodically submitted to His Highness by the Minister for that purpose.

This Council of which His Highness is President, is composed of eight of the Chief Nobles The Council of State of the State including the Minister

The Prime Minister The following Secretariats are under the Prime Minister —

|-----------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1 Political and Finance           | 5 Draft or Mulk.                   |
| 2 Home Department                 | 6 Public Works, Mines and Railways |
| 3 Revenue Department              | 7 Regular and Irregular Troops     |
| 4 Miscellaneous and Miscellaneous | 8 Private Secretariat              |

The Secretaries of these Departments either see and transact business with the Minister at stated intervals, or submit their papers for perusal and order in office boxes, which are returned when their contents have been disposed of. The Minister, subject to the control of His Highness, exercises complete supervision over the Financial and General Administration of all the Departments of the State.

These offices, which are in charge of Hajib Sherry Dharmawant Bihadar, are the The Draft or Mulk. depositories of all the State records. Papers relating to titles, sanads, jagirs, &c., are also deposited in these offices.

The head of the District Administration is the Subdar or Commissioner. The dominions are divided into four divisions, each of which is controlled by a Subdar. The Revenue, Police, Magistrate, and District Public Works are in the Subdar's charge, and he has one Revenue and one Judicial Assistant. The Subdar in the Western Division has no control over the Civil Jurisdiction in the division, a special District Judge with Munsiff, and Mir Munshi, having been appointed for civil judicial work.

The 16 districts, into which the dominions are divided, are each in charge of a Talukdar, who corresponds to the District Commissioner in Bihar or the Punjab. The Talukdar is vested with extensive powers (subject to the control of the Subdar) in Revenue, Civil and Criminal matters. Each Talukdar has one Judicial Assistant. In the Western Division, however, the Talukdar exercises no control in civil cases.

Each Talukdar is assisted by a Second Talukdar, whose office corresponds to that of a first-class Assistant Commissioner. He usually has his headquarters in the most important taluk in the district and disposes of Revenue, Police and Civil cases under the orders of the Talukdar.

The Third Talukdar has charge of the Treasury and resides at the head quarters of the district where he assists the Talukdar in Revenue and Judicial work, and has also the control of the Irregular Troops stationed in the district.

Each Tahsil or Taluka is in charge of a Tahsildar, who is responsible for the collection of the Revenue instalments in his Tahsil and is also in charge of the Tahsil Treasury. He is also vested with Civil and Criminal powers to a limited extent, except in the Western Division.

PART III.

SECTION I

CHUDDERGHAUT,

THE HYDERABAD RESIDENCY IN THE DECCAN

The building in which the British Resident resides is called by this name. It is an elegant and lofty edifice, said to be the next in splendour and magnificence only to the Government House at Calcutta, and is enclosed by a high wall with bastions at the entrance gates. It is situated about a mile to the north of the City of Hyderabad the river Mussea running in the intervening space. In the front of the building is a very noble portico formed by Corinthian pillars and a lofty arched house itself. In a level with the floor is a strong wall on which is a relief of one of those grotesque figures very frequently met with in the sculptures, but really half woman half lion, or anything else one might fancy. To the right and left of the building are attached two handsome wings, each containing accommodation sufficient for a large number of guests. The building is finished in the handsomest style, and is described by Sir John Mackintosh to be "Oriental only in its magnificence, but perfect English in its comfort." Opposite the front of the building, which is the entrance for European visitors or noblemen of Hyderabad, on ordinary as well as on State occasions is a pretty flower garden (thoroly laid out with the whole building presents a delightful view. There is a second flower garden, in which is to be seen a miniature model of the Residency building. In the compound there are good dwelling houses for the Resident and Second Assistant Residents, and office accommodation for the Administrative, Financial, Military, Judicial and Persian Departments. At one end of the compound is a barracks for a detachment of Cavalry and a company of Native Infantry designed to be the Resident's Escort under the command of a European Commissioned Officer. There is also a Burial-ground, a Racquet Court, and a Croquet ground within the Residency compound. The Hyderabad Telegraph Office is situated within the Residency walls. The Branch Bank of Bengal is closely situated.

Surrounding the Residency is a number of populous bazaars embracing an area of about a square mile, over which the Resident exercises his "almost unreserved jurisdiction, both in Civil and Criminal matters." The bazaars contain some merchants who possess great wealth, their transactions extend all over India. Many of the employés of His Highness the Nizam's Government have taken up their abode within the Residency jurisdiction. The Officer Commanding the Resident's Escort holds also the office of the Secretary to the L. F. Committee, and performs in this capacity, duties much resembling those of a Municipal Commissioner. He has the assistance of a Municipal Committee, composed of members of the chief branches of the local community. The Officer Commanding the Resident's Escort receives a small special allowance as Secretary of the Committee, and superintends the work of public improvements and sanitation, assisted by a Sanitary Inspector.

The Resident exercises both Administrative and Political functions. Administrative in respect to the Hyderabad Assigned Districts, commonly called Berar; Political in regard to that portion of the Hyderabad country administered by H. H.'s Government.

SECTION II.*SECUNDERABAD.*GENERAL DESCRIPTION

Secunderabad is a British Military Cantonment, situated 6 miles north-east of Hyderabad City, in Lat 17° 26' 30" N and long 78° 33' E at an elevation of 1,430 feet above sea-level

Secunderabad, which is named after the Nizam Subadar Jah, is the largest Military station in India, and forms the head-quarters of the Hyderabad Subadary Force, which constitutes a division of the Madras Army. The Military Force stationed here consists of one Regiment of European and another of Native Cavalry, one Battery of Royal Horse Artillery, three Batteries of Royal Artillery (field and garrison), two Regiments of British and three Native Infantry, with a Company of Sappers and Miners. An Ordnance Establishment has charge of the Arsenal, and there is also a large Commissariat Staff. This Force is maintained by the British Government, under the terms of a treaty with the Nizam, dated 21st May 1853, in lieu of certain Contingent and Auxiliary Forces, which had been previously raised by the Nizam to co-operate with the British Army. The cost of the Force is defrayed out of the revenues of certain districts ceded by the Nizam under the treaty of May 1853, revised by a second treaty in 1860. Up to the year 1850, previous to the head-quarters of the Subadary Force being stationed here, the Cantonment of Secunderabad consisted of a line of barracks and huts, extending for a distance of 3 miles from east to west, with the Artillery in the front and on the left flank, and the Infantry on the right. Since that date, however, the Cantonment boundaries have been extended as far as Bolaram covering a total area of 19 square miles, including many interspersed villages. New double-storied barracks have been erected for the European soldiers, and the quarters for the Native troops, which are situated at some distance, are also comfortably built. The country for many miles around undulates into hummocks with a few outcrops of unyielding rock, crossed from east to west by green-stone dikes. East of the Cantonment are two large outcrops of granite, in the north-east is a granite hill known as Vellu Ali, and near it another called Kailam Basal, from a legend that it bears an impression of Mahim's foot. Sandy trees line the roads of the Cantonment, and near the European barracks and Native lines are clusters of the date and palmyra palms, otherwise the face of the country is bare, with but little depth of soil in the elevated parts. Cultivation is carried on in the deep soil valleys, in several of which tanks have been constructed. The water-supply from wells is not abundant. Immediately to the south-west of the Cantonment is a large artificial reservoir or tank, known as the Hussain Sagar, about 13 miles in circumference.

The parade ground on Secunderabad is of great extent, upon which a Force of seven or eight thousand troops can be manoeuvred with ease. To the right of it are the Public Rooms, to which members are elected by ballot. The rooms contain a rich library, games as well as dining and luncheon saloons. Close by is the cinema, containing the pictures of many officers who have died here. A short distance from Secunderabad is the Cantonment of Tanmalgherry, containing an encircled camp capable of containing all the Europeans in the neighbourhood. At Tanmalgherry is the military museum, styled "Windsor Castle." Here soldiers sentenced by courts-martial to punishment are confined. The place contains fifty-two cells. It has also a clock tower from the summit of which a distant view of Secunderabad may be obtained. The Hyderabad Sahaswari Force is not the sole body in the neighbourhood. Adjoining Secunderabad Cantonment to the north is the Bolaram Cantonment, one of the stations of the Hyderabad Contingent. The Force stationed here consists of one Regiment of Cavalry, one of Infantry, and one Battery of Artillery. Again, about 5 miles south of the Secunderabad Cantonment is the line of the Hyderabad troops, also belonging to the Nizam, comprising Cavalry, Artillery and Infantry, under the command of a European officer. Altogether, a total of 14 miles from north to south, about 9,000 disciplined soldiers are employed. During the Mutiny of 1857 an unsuccessful attempt was made to tamper with the fidelity of the troops at Secunderabad. An attack on the British Residency was repulsed, and during the troubled times of 1857-58, much good service was rendered by both the Hyderabad Force and the Hyderabad Contingent. A short distance west of Secunderabad Regiment and Irregularly are situated. The Pioneers are stationed at the first place, and a Madras Cavalry Regiment at the latter.

PART IV. BERAR;

OR,

The Hyderabad Assigned Districts

GENERAL DESCRIPTION, EXTENT, AREA AND POPULATION.

The word Berar signifies now, politically and geographically, the districts which have been assigned by the Highness the Nizam to the British Government under the Treaties of 1853 and 1861.

It forms the northernmost portion of the Hyderabad State, running up from the south with a breadth gradually narrowing into an extreme point touching the Tapi river, half surrounded on the east, north, and north-west by the Central Provinces and western Khandesh district of the Bombay Presidency, along a section of about forty miles of its western border. The Gawilgarh hills—a range belonging to the Satpura mountains—from the geographical boundary of Berar on the north, with a deep indent made by the Malghat tract, on the east its frontier is marked accurately by the Wardha river down to its confluence with the Panurganga, and on the south by the Panurganga for about two-thirds of the frontier's length.

On the west the border of Berar is merely an artificial line cutting across a broad valley from the Satpura mountains to the hills on which stands Ajanta, and proceeding southward over these hills until it turns eastward by a sharp angle near Jalna. This Ajanta range intersects the whole province from west to east and its steep ridge divides the interior geography into two systems. Setting aside the Malghat mountain tract as abnormal, we have two distinct sections of Berar. The Payanghat, or lowland country, bounded on the north by the Gawilgarh hills, and on the south by the outer escarp of the Ajanta range, and the Balaghat, or upland country above the Ajanta ridge, sloping down southward beyond the ghats or passes which lead up to it. So that the Payanghat is a wide valley running up eastward between this ridge and the Gawilgarh hills like a long backwater or deep bay, varying in breadth from forty to fifty miles, and broader towards the end than at its mouth. The surface of this valley is not flat or even, it rises and descends by very long low waves, with their troughs cutting mostly north and south, flowing up eastward to a point just beyond Amraoti; here this formation is broken up by a chain of low hills that run in a north-westerly direction across the plain. These hills mark a change in the country's watershed. Westward of them the main slope of the valley is toward the west, from the point where the Purna river makes almost a right angle by its sudden turn, but eastward of Amraoti the streams take an opposite direction, and their course to the Wardha or some of its affluents.

The Payanghat valley contains all the best land in Berar, it is full of that rich black alluvial soil called regur, of almost inexhaustible fertility, and it undulates just enough to maintain a natural system of drainage, which is probably very favourable to the productive powers of the land. Here and there are barren tracts, where the hills spread out ample skirts far into the plain covered with round stones and scrub jungles, or where a few outlying flat topped hills often with hammocks or humps looking like huge cairns on their crown, stand forward beyond the racks to which they belong. But there is nothing picturesque about this broad strip of alluvial campaign country, it is very desolate of trees except near the villages close under the hills; and beside the Purna it has hardly a perennial stream. In the early autumn it is one sheet of cultivation and looks fresh enough but from the beginning of the hot season, when the crops have been gathered its generally monotonous plain is relieved by neither verdure, landscape, nor water, and the landscape is desolate and depressing.

However, the aspect of the country above the passes which lead to the Balaghat is quite different. Here is the extreme northern limit of the table land of the Dekhan the sides and summits of the outlier hills are covered with low forest from their crests the main slope of the land is southward wide basins down follow each other in successive expanses of open fields sloping down to shallow channels which carry off the water like gutters between two points of a low roof. The trees are finer and the groves more frequent than in the valley below. The air is more plentiful and nearer to the surface. This is the character of much of the Balaghat highlands in the west of Berar, where they fall southward towards the Deccan country by gradual decline and by series of ridges or steppes. But the whole face of the Balaghat has no uniform features, it stretches into downs and valleys where it is most open then it gets broken up into flat-topped hills and steep ravines where in its eastern section the country is still more sharply accentuated by a splitting up of the main hill range which has caused that variety of low lying plains high plateau fertile bottoms and rocky wastes which is sketched in the description of the Wun district.

Speaking roughly it may be said that when you have crossed the line of 77° longitude beyond which the Balaghat watershed falls decidedly eastward the wide-spreading downs disappear entirely you reach a tract in which the horizon is bounded on all sides by long unceasing hill ridges curving valleys whose floor seem to the traveller to undulate like a chopping sea. From the Mahur hill fort which crowns the point of a promontory of the Hyderabad territories jutting out into the south eastern side of Berar the landscape, when from an eminence of about one thousand feet, wears the look of a platform or table, upon which various forms of huge fantastic earthworks have been projected or upheaved—conical barrows, long flat topped mounts like gigantic graves huge sharp-backed banks running right across the open, and the higher distinct hill ranges enclosing the whole. There is much cultivation on the ground floor among these elevations but the blackish barren rock, and the great extent of scanty jungle forest, give a dreary countenance to the general out-look.

Berar is divided for purposes of administration into six districts, which are again sub-divided into 22 tahsils or taluks. The following is the area and population according to the census of 1891 —

Form of Administration.

The province is divided for purposes of administration into six districts, which are again sub-divided into 23 talukas or talukas which are revenue and judicial sub-divisions. The administration is conducted under the orders of the Resident at Hyderabad by one Revenue and Financial Commissioner and one Judicial Commissioner who have their head-quarters at Amraoti. The Revenue Commissioner is the head of the local administration in the province, subject to the control of the Resident. The Judicial Commissioner exercises the powers of a Provincial High Court and superintends administratively the working of the court of justice in all their departments subject to the orders and instructions of the Resident, whose Court is the High Court for the province. The Judicial Commissioner exercises also general supervision over the Jail Department.

The general staff for conducting the district administration consists of the following officers, who exercise usually both civil magisterial and revenue powers on the system in vogue in what are termed non-regulation provinces —

- 6 Deputy Commissioners.
- 2 Special Assistant Commissioners.
- 12 Assistant Commissioners.
- 9 Extra Assistant Commissioners.

Three or more attachés from the staff of the Resident at Hyderabad are also usually deputed for employment in general administrative work in the province to strengthen the staff of Assistant Commissioners. Assistance is also rendered in petty magisterial work by Special or Honorary Magistrates, of whom there are in all 19 in number.

Separate departments are managed and supervised by special officers.

The Inspector-General of Police has also in his charge the departments of Jails and Registration and Stamp.

In the Police Department there are six District Superintendents of Police, one appointed to each district, and three Assistant Superintendents.

The Jails are in the care of the Civil Surgeon at each district head-quarters.

The Sanitary Commissioner, who is also Inspector-General of Dispensaries and Vaccination, controls the Medical Department.

The Educational Department is in charge of the Director of Public Instruction, who has below him one Educational Inspector and seven Deputy Inspectors.

The Forest Department is managed by a Conservator, three Assistant Conservators and three Sub-Assistants.

In the Public Works Department there are three Executive Engineers, each in charge of one of the three divisions—East Berar, West Berar and South Berar—into which the province is for these purposes sub-divided, and four Assistant Engineers. The Superintending Engineer is located at Bolarum, where he is also Secretary to the Resident in the Public Works Department, having an Assistant Secretary.

At the head of each revenue sub-division or Taluk is a Tahsildar, who is assisted by a Naib and other assistants called Kirkan.

The last link in the chain of administrative organization consists of the village officials.

At the head of the village is the Patel, whose office is usually hereditary, and he is assisted by a Putwari or accountant, who is also generally a hereditary incumbent.

In small villages the Patel has both revenue, and police duties. He is agent for the collection of the State revenue, and is Superintendent of the Jughas or village police, who, though not organized under the Police Department, have many miscellaneous duties to perform, as village messengers, watchmen, guardians of boundary marks, &c., which are outside the functions of the regular Police. The Patel must give information of all crimes, and in cases of necessity may arrest persons.

In some of the large villages a 'Police Patel' is appointed separately from the 'Revenue Patel.' In that case the former has charge of the village pound, and gets certain allowances from the cattle pound fees.

The Putwari, besides the duty of preparing the annual jamaabandi, or statement showing the occupant area, rental and crop of every field in his circle, has to keep all the village papers and accounts, to register the applications for land, and the "razinamas" giving up land, and the papers showing transfers which he has to produce as vouchers for the changes shown in the holdings in the yearly jamaabandi; he is also responsible that every payment of revenue is duly written up in the receipt book, which every registered land occupant holds.

The object of the Society is to relieve destitute Europeans and Eurasians, and assist local poor, thus putting a stop to professional begging.

In connexion with the Society is a "Home" next to Messrs. Pearson's Shop where any destitute person, who will accept it, may obtain, for a limited time, food and lodging—until they can obtain work—if they fail in this, the Society pays their travelling expenses to some other Station where they may be able obtain it.

The Society is supported by Voluntary Subscriptions, and by a small grant from the Cantonment Fund.—Subscriptions or donations, however small, will be gratefully received and acknowledged by the Honorary Secretary.

Since several cases of deaths among Europeans and Eurasians under circumstances of the deepest destitution have occurred from time to time in this place and its suburbs and their bodies buried without any of the decencies of Christian surroundings, also because the present local charges attending funerals is beyond the reach of the very indigent and often very worthy poor, to avert this distress at the time of burial the Society is formed, which it is hoped will be productive of thrift and forethought as far as they are concerned. It is further intended to assist the clergy of the several denominations in providing what is actually necessary for the interment of the most friendless and destitute who may happen to die in our midst.
